Adulteration of Liquors.

The following letter of Dr. Higgins, of Maryland, in reply to an inquiry propounded by the Judge of the Baltimore Criminal Court, will be read with interest. The letter was laid before the Grand Jury by Judge Stump, and upon the adjournment of that body was kindly furnished to us for publication: -Baltimore Patriot.

BALTIMORE, June 27th, 1859. To His Honor Henry Stump, the Judge of the Criminal Court of Baltimore city.

SIR: In compliance with your request, I propose nothing more than to give a brief summary of the analysis, which, from time to time, I have made of whiskey and other liquors, their adulterations, intentionally made, and their deleterious compounds produced in the progress of distillation.

It might be premised that if one of the principal characteristics of our epoch in a commercial point of view, is the immense progress which every department of productive industry has achieved, it ought to be admitted that the arts of adulteration and sophistication have more than kept pace with that progress. And it could be added with perfeet truth, that these arts have invaded the luxuries of the rich and the necessities of the poor: raiment, food, medicines, furniture, the means of life, and the requirements of ground, pulverized, worn, pressed-all articles of consumption in trade, in manufactures, in the arts, in a word, all that can be made matter of commerce, and be sold, is adulterated, falsified, disguised, and drugged. Incertitude and falsehood are everywhere the sure brands on packages. The very neces-saries of life are mixed with poisonous substances, and the medicines sold to cure the so adulterated, as to be equally injurious with the substances whose effects they were prescribed to cure. Almost all the liquors sold in our markets are adulterated more or less, and some of them are injurious from carrying the process of distillation too far. I have examined many specimens of whiskey, and have found in most of them, the for the sake of "harmony." existence of fusel oil (produced by improper distillation) and sulphuric acid. The latter favor internal improvements, and Democrats is an intentional adulteration. The presence of fusil oil in whiskey may be detected by the following distinct, sensible properties.

First as to Smell. This is burning and Whiskey or brandy, which contains this oil, has a hot, burning and scalding taste. The burning sensation is different from that crats who denounce the scheme as a rank produced by hot water, cayenne pepper, mustard, or most of the vegetable substances. It's vapor breathed for a short time produces asthmatic pain, with cough and who advocate the revival of the slave trade, first, that of a burning heat which must be relieved by an instant drop of cold water, or vomiting will ensue and be accompanied with the eructation of viscid frothy mucus parts of the country seem to be particularly from the stomach and throat. Its subsequent effect is to produce dyspepsia, head of what is called the "new dogma"—being ache, sickness of the stomach with great mental and physical prostration, and all the Constitution of the United States on the Naevils incident to want of nutrition, depraved | tional Legislature, in the matter of the prosecretions of the liver, and general disorder of the dige stive organs. It also matericlaim in the common Territories of the ally lessens the quantity of urine, and Union .- Nat. Int. makes it high-colored and loads it with ureaarie acid.

Sulphuric acid is used in adulteration. Whiskey or brandy adulterated with this acid may be distingushed by its cooling taste on the tongue, and its agreeable aromatic odor. It neither heats the stomach nor burns the tongue; its physylogical influence, however, is very deleterious, producing a sort of delirium analagous to that produced by laughing gas, and depriving, for a time, the recipient of it, of all mental or physical The first effect is one of wild, jubilant delirium, then stupor, and frequently total unconsciousness follows.

To a mind like yours, familiar with medical jurisprudence, I know the inquiry will readily suggest itself, whether a person, in justice, should be punished for a crime committed when under the influence of liquor so adulterated. Ought not the penalty of the law to visit the fabricator of the cause of crime? As a Judge you can much better answer the question. As a citizen, and a man of some experience. I have no hesitation in saying that he who commences Kinsolving, Mr. THOMAS W. DUDLEY, jr., of the "fray" ought to take the blows. But Richmond, to Miss FANNY B., daughter of Doct. lawyers and legistors must fix the matter.

There is a popular error that strychnine is placed in whiskey. When investigating the nature and cure for the hog cholera, I had abundant opportunity for information on this subject, and can safely say that it is not used in whiskey or brandy. It could effect nothing if used, and could not be profitably employed. It is used in beer, ale and all of the malt liquors, for the purpose of imparting bitterness, but in quantities so small as not to occasion injury to those who make use of them.

I have the honor to be your obedient JAMES HIGGINS. servant, Analytic and Consulting Chemist

The Modern Democratic Party Of the doctrines espoused by the Democratic party, we find it difficult to convey any intelligible idea, so numerous are the sects which severally claim to be the sole legitimate exponents of Democratic orthodoxy .-In many of our Southern Democratic contemporaries we read of "Southern Rights Democrats," as contradistinguished from "National Democrats;" of "Administration Democrats," in opposition to "Douglas Democrats;" of Democrats who favor the leading measures of Mr. Buchanan, and of Democrats who denounce them as the off-spring of worse than "Hamiltonian Federalism." At the North we have Democrats of every variety of shade, created by the greater or less degree in which their complexion is colored by what is called "Lecomptonism, in the late political parlance of the day .-Democrats who favored the admission of Kansas into the Union under the Lecompton Constitution, are sternly at variance with Democrats who repudiated that instrument as a fraud upon popular rights. Democrats who voted for the "English Conference bill," find it difficult to harmonize with those who look upon that "temporizing expedient" with positive disrespect. Time and patience would fail us if we should undertake to tell of Democrats who are in favor of free trade disease, all that can be mixed, twisted, and direct taxation; Democrats who in Louisiana are in favor of both these desiderata, but nevertheless think sugar entitled to some protection; Democrats in Pennsylvania who are willing to make large concessions on other points, if only the duty on iron be kept sufficiently specific; Democrats in Kentucky who think that Mr. Clay's "American system" was a very mistaken theory of political economy, but who hold diseases produced by them, are frequently that a tax on imported hemp is highly expedient and constitutional; Democrats in New England (immoderate in their demands because modest in their numbers) who think that "the textile fabrics" should be treated with some consideration by those who pawant of skill in the manufactures, or by tronise sugar in Louisiana, iron in Pennsyl vania, and hemp in Kentucky, but who still are willing to sacrifice a large per centage

And then, too, we have Democrats who who denounce them as unconstitutional; Democrats who think the public lands should be disposed of as speed ly as possible by a general homestead bill, and Democrats who pronounce this policy unwise and (not to pungent, with a slight tinge of putridity .- | put too fine a point on it) "demagogical and agrarian;" Democrats who espouse Mr. Clay's plan of "distribution," and Demopolitical heresy; Democrats who believe in the gospel of fillibusterism, and Democrats who sustain the neutrality laws; Democrats vomiting. It's effects on the stomach are, and Democrats who vote it to be "unwise, inexpedient, and contrary to the settled policy of the country."

At present our Democratic friends in all exercised by certain divisions growing out the definition of the duty enjoined by the Release of the Oberlin Prisoners. It has already been stated that the Oberlin rescuers were all released from imprisonment at Cleveland, on Wednesday, July 6, the government entering a plea granting their discharge. The announcement of their release created great excitement among their friends at Cleveland, who fired one hundred guns in honor of the event, and procuring a band of music, formed a procession and escorted the late prisoners to the depot, en route for their homes at Oberlin. Subsequently, a nol pros. was entered in the cases of Sam. Davis and J. K. Lowe, United States officers, arrested through the instrumentality of the Oberlin fanatics, for executing the Fugitive Slave law. MARRIED.

A CARD FROM ROGER A. PRYOR. -The suggestion of my name, through the papers and by private communication in connection with candidacy for the seat in Congress vacated by the death of the Hon, Wm. O. Goode, imposes on me the obligation of declaring at | Cons. White once that, for reasons with which it is unnecessary to trouble the public, I cannot consent to be a competitor for the place. This declaration is intended as a courteous but definitive refusal to be brought forward for the office. To the kind friends who are TIMOTHY SEED pleased to think me worthy of so honorable a distinction, I beg to return the assurance of a grateful appreciation of the compliment. Very respectfully, Ac., Roger A. Pryor. Petersburg, July 9th, 1859.

ARREST OF A PICK-POCKET .- During the month of October last, a travelling pick pocket calling himself William Slaven, paid a Bacon, Hog Round .. professional visit to this city to attend the U. Agricultural Fair, and shortly after was arrested at the Richmond and Danville Railond Depot, for releiving Mr. Henry Badget of his wallet, containing about $700 in paper and money. At the November term of the Hustings Court, Slaven was examined on the charged of grand larceny, and after a patient hearing, was remanded for final trial at quiet. There were light offerings, among them the fall term of the Circuit Court.

Slaven, in company with four or five other prisoners, worked his way out of the jail, made good his escape, and had not been heard of until Saturday last, when information was received that the escaped bird had been captured in New York by Mr. J. Holbrook, and was held in custody, subject to the order of the Virginia authorities. We suppose Gov. Wise will send a requisition for the fugitive, and that he will be brought back to the Old Dominion, to answer for past offences.—Richwould Dispatch.

SAD ACCIDENT.-We learn that on Saturday an accident of a very serious nature occurred at Mr. Edgar Jones' saw mill, distent in Dinwiddie county about 23 miles .-A man by the name of Young, who had been employed as sawyer in the mill but a short time, while engaged in sawing, fell across the saw and had one of his legs sawed off just above the knee and the other so mangled by the saw that it had to be amputated.

YELLOW FEVER AND OVERFLOWS .- The New Orleans Crescent refers to the theory which is becoming daily stronger, and is defended with great ability in the last number of the New Orleans Medical and Surgical Review, that overflows are preventives of yellow fever. It refers to the experience of Alexandria, on the Red river, in support of his doctrine. Bayon Sara last year, and New Orleans in 1849, are also strong illustrations of the reasonableness of this view .-Other able Journals have strenously contended in favor of the same doctrine.
